PAWNSHOP TRAFFIC.

A Broker Explains Where Most of the Borrowed Money Goes.

"Where does all the money we lend go to?" said a pawnbroker to a Brooklyn Eagle writer. "Well, into the saloons principally. We and the breweries run a sort of joint-stock company. Don't you believe all that talk about cruel landlords and people putting up their clothes to pay the rent. When they do it is mostly because they've spent the money they owed him in working the growler. Now there are the washerwomen, for example. By Saturday they've got wash-boards, irons, clothes-pins—every thing "spouted." Monday they come and redeem the wash-boards and clothes-pins. Tuesday they bring these back and take out the irons, and Saturday when the clothes go home back comes the whole outfit again. It's beer. They say they've got to have something strengthening while they work, and the beer-bucket stands by the tub and ironing-table all day long and soaks up all their earnings, and so they come to us. The sporting men come to us pretty regularly. When luck is with them they redeem every thing, and we don't see them for awhile, but the moment it turns, back come the watches and diamond pins they are so fond of. Every thing goes in at once, because they don't pawn piecemeal to live; they come to us to raise a stake for a new try, and all the rings and pins and chains go in a lump. I've known some men whose names are familiar in sporting circles all over the country come here and take out and put in their jewelry twice in one week when the see-saw was going up and down lively. You'd be surprised, too, if you knew what queer experiences we have with young ladies whose names are in the lists of Delmonico balls. Some of them, though they live in fine houses, are kept awfully low in cash, and when they want a five-dollar bill to go out of town to a friend or ask another girl to lunch with them at Del's, come to us with their silver smelling bottles and hair brushes. One of them had a close shave here last spring, for they do these things on the strict q. t. A stylish girl in sealskins came here in February and pawned a beautiful French bonbonniere with a miniature painting on the lid, which was surrounded with little diamonds. We knew perfectly well when she gave us the name and address that it was not the real one, but that was her affair. She didn't seem able to take it out again, but she paid the interest regularly, and the last payment she made she came near getting into a scrape but that she was so quick-witted and I helped her. A lawyer came in while she was attending to it—held come to get some evidence he wanted to use in a case, and he recognized her. 'Why, Miss ——!' he cried, astonished, 'what are you doing here? Is there any thing in which I can be of service to you?' The girl turned dead white, but she said quick as a flash and in the sweetest, quietest way: 'Well, no and yes. You see a favorite maid of mine got into trouble and carried off my bonbonniere and pawned it. I think she only meant to keep it here for awhile and redeem and return it with her next month's wages, but I missed it and then she confessed and gave me the pawn-ticket, and I concluded to come and see about it myself. I haven't the money with me to-day,' she said, turning to me in the most matter-of-fact way, 'but I'll send for it to-morrow.' 'Certainly, ma'am,' said I. 'I'm sorry for our share in your annoyance.' Then she smiled up at the lawyer and said: 'Now I want you to advise me as to whether I should keep the girl and give her a chance to redeem her character,' and so discussing that point they passed out together and he put her in the car. She came back early the next morning and paid the interest. I saw in one of the papers the other day that her engagement to the same lawyer was announced. The bonbonniere is here still."

REALY KIND MEN.

Home the Training School in Which Good Husbands Are Educated.

Few mothers reflect that the family is merely a school for husbands and wives, says the Rural New Yorker. What sort of men make the best husbands? Those who as boys had the best mothers. The boy who will criticise his mother's speech, or dress—who will find fault with her coffee, or bread, will do the same with the woman who may be so unfortunate as to give her life's happiness into his hands. A selfish man may be drawn out of his selfishness through a few weeks' courtship, but wait until the wear and worry of married life come on, and he will inevitably settle back into it. Love seldom radically changes a nature. Only the grace of God can do that, and it takes more grace, I often think, than many people get hold of.

"The best husbands I ever met," says the author of John Halifax, "came out of a family where the mother, a most heroic and self-denying woman, laid down the absolute law, 'Girls First;' not in any authority, but first to be thought of in protection and tenderness. Consequently the chivalrous care which those lads were taught to show to their sisters naturally extended itself to all women. They grew up true gentlemen—gentlemen, generous, unexacting, courteous of speech and kind of heart."

It was while reading the above that it occurred to me how truly the mother molds and forms the future husband. It is a fearful responsibility, I grant you, sisters, but the reward is a glorious one. If you teach your sons to yield generously to their sisters, to shield and protect them manfully and lovingly, not only do they make better husbands, but the sisters who have been so cared for will look for the same courtesy, chivalry and tenderness in the man they marry, and will be satisfied with nothing less.

Right here I want to give a quotation from Shakespeare which occurs to me. There isn't any special connection or sequence in it, except that mothers would do well to have their daughters commit to memory this single passage, if no other, from the world's greatest poet. It speaks for itself and comment is unnecessary.

"And while thou liv'st, dear Kate, take a fellow of plain and uncoined constancy, for he perforce must do the right, because he hath not the gift to woo in other places; for these fellows of infinite tongue, that can rhyme themselves into ladies' favors, they do always reason themselves out again. What! a speaker is but a prater, a rhyme is but a ballad. A good leg will fail; a straight back will stoop; a black beard will turn white; a curled pate will grow bald; a full eye will wax hollow; but a good heart, Kate, is the sun and moon, or rather the sun and not the moon; for it shines bright and never changes, but keeps its course truly."

It Is an Ill Wind, Etc.

Peter Thelan, a Greeley County (Kan.) farmer, had completed his arrangements for moving his barn. A summer evening breeze happened along while he slept and carried the barn to within a few feet of the intended site. A team of horses were hitched in the building, but their halters broke and they had to walk.

The Great Monthly Magazine of the World."—Pacific Churchman.

THE CENTURY MAGAZINE IN 1889.

WHY Has it such an enormous circulation? Experts estimate that between two and three millions of people read each number.

BECAUSE THE CENTURY is above every thing a leader. It led the development of wood-engraving in America, and it has fostered American authors. It is alive to the issues of to-day. What it prints sets people to thinking and talking.

BECAUSE Whatever other periodicals may come into the family, the great reading world has found out that "no household can keep abreast of the times without THE CENTURY." "Its success is explained by its contents."

BECAUSE The greatest writers of the world like to have their work read by the greatest number, and therefore to such a magazine as THE CENTURY the best naturally comes. It was for THE CENTURY that General Grant first wrote his reminiscenses of important battles.

BECAUSE It is publishing the life of Abraham Lincoln, by his private secretaries. Of this it has been said, "The young man who is not reading it robs himself of that which he will hunger for." The coming year presents the most important part of this great history, which may begin at any time.

BECAUSE It is printing those remarkable articles on "Siberia and the Exile System," by George Kennan, which are attracting universal attention and are being reprinted in hundreds of foreign newspapers, but are not allowed to enter Russia. The "Chicago Tribune" says that "no other magazine articles printed in the English language just now touch upon a subject which so vitally interests all thoughtful people in Europe and America and Asia." They are "as judicial as the opinion of a Supreme Court tribunal—as thrilling as the most sensational drama"

BECAUSE During 1889 THE CENTURY is to have a series of engravings of the greatest pictures of the old Italian masters, made by Timothy Cole, the leading wood-engraver in the world, who has spent four years in Italy on this work; a series of "Strange True Stories of Louisiana," by Geo. W. Cable; occasional richly illustrated papers describing the scenes of the current International Sunday-school lessons; interesting illustrated papers on Ireland, and a series of humorous and pathetic Irish-American stories; a striking illustrated novelette, "The Romance of Dollard," by a new writer, and other novelettes to be announced later; supplemental war papers, untechnical and descriptive of special incidents, "Pictures of the Far West," by Mary Hallock Foote, etc., etc. We have not space here to announce all the new features. Let us send you (free) our "Catalogue of Special Publications," with original illustrations containing full prospectus, special offer of back numbers to the beginning of the Siberian papers, etc. The November number, which begins the new volume, is for sale everywhere after November 1st. THE CENTURY costs 35 cents a number; $4.00 a year. Address THE CENTURY CO., 33 East 17th street, New York.

The Monroe Doctrine.

The building of the Panama canal was undertaken by a purely private company, the leading spirit being Mons. De Lesseps, famous by reason of his connection with the Suez canal and other triumphs of engineering. The French Government at the start disavowed any connection with it or any intention to become connected with it. Without this disvowal on the part of France the United States would never have consented to the De Lesseps Co. beginning the work. It was made known to France in terms which could not be misunderstood, by three American Secretaries of State, that the United States would look with disfavor on any act on the part of her Government that should tend to create a necessity or furnish a pretext for the establishment, at any time in the future, of a French protectorate in Central America. Should the French government build the canal, or should stand behind De Lesseps's enterprise, it was clearly foreseen by these American Secretaries of State that an emergency might arise where the French government would feel bound to protect or defend the canal, and in so doing would have to establish its powers on this continent, and so they took great pains to secure from that government a distinct and unequivocal disavowal of any intention to in any way identify itself with the canal enterprise.

Up to the present time France has lived up to that disavowal But the time is close at hand when a tremendous pressure is to be put upon it to force it into some sort of connection with the enterprise. For De Lesseps, after the expenditure of millions upon millions of dollars, has got to the end of his rope, with but comparatively little to show for the gigantic outlay of money, and the terrible list of deaths that have occurred among the laborers who have been engaged in the work. The effect of the De Lesseps failure has been widespread in France. The losers are not a few big capitalists, but thousands and tens of thousands of people of small means, whose faith in De Lesseps induced them to buy with their savings shares in his great work. These small holders are scattered all over France, and the ultimate failure of the enterprise means losses to them which they cannot afford to bear. France is a Republic and the people are influential. And all of these people will have the strongest kind of a personal motive to urge the Government to take hold of this enterprise and save it from ruin and themselves from serious loss, and an agitation is pretty certain to be begun looking to that end. Senator Edmunds' resolution introduced into the Senate looking to a reassertion of the Monroe doctrine is therefore exceedingly timely.

SENATOR OSBURN introduced yesterday a concurrent resolution in the Senate providing for the appointment of a committee to visit Sacramento in the interest of the annexation proposition, and it passed both houses. The GAZETTE believes that if the matter is intelligently handled that the committee can accomplish it. If submitted to a vote of the people living this side of the water shed, we have no doubt of the result, for certainly that part of California belongs to this State geographically.

DIPHTHERIA is very prevalent in Oakland. A physician of that city says that there were more deaths from diphtheria last month than from smallpox during the terrible epidemic of the last two years. Defective sewerage is said to be the cause.

THE Oregonian estimates that 80,000 people came to Oregon from other States to settle during 1888, and believes a much larger number will come in 1889.

PARNELL COMMISSION

Bismarck Criticises the Liberal Press of Germany — Thought to be the Whitechapel Murderer.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCHES TO THE GAZETTE.]

The Parnell Commission.

LONDON, Jan. 15.—The Parnell Commission has resumed sittings. Sir Charles Russell, Counsel for the Parnellites, applied for an order against the Worchester Times for comments upon the Commission Presiding Justice Hannen said he regretted the repeated applications of this character, which has caused more distress to the Court than the prosecution of inquiry. He appealed to Counsel to use their influence to prevent such statements, and the Court would decide the application later.

William O'Brien appeared before the Commission under a citation and stated that he accepted the responsibility for an article in the United Ireland, for which he was summoned, but denied that he intended any disrespect to the Court, and disclaimed an imputation of the Judges not doing their duty. The Court reserved judgement.

O'Brien said he did not assume to question their Lordships rulings, but urged that he had a right to comment upon the scandalous evidence being given before the Commission. He continued, "we are most anxious to meet the charges against us. Month after month, we are incurring frightful expenses, yet the Times has not touched the one allegation made in its columns, which if proved, will render all this matter entirely superfluous. We do not criticise the Court, but the conduct of the Times. We desire to come to the point. That is the object of our Scotch action."

Counsel for Brodrick, the warden of the College of Oxford, summoned to appear before the Commission for making a speech in which he compared Davitt and Dillon to the White Chapel murderer, denied that Brodrick intended any contempt of court.

The taking of evidence was resumed, and testimony relative to evictions in Tipperary.

Stanley Safe—A Sick King.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15. — A London dispatch to the Times says: I have direct information from an official source that the Government has received letters from Henry M. Stanley, and that his safety is assured. These letters are soon to be published. They are temporarily withheld for official reasons. Of the safety of the explorer there is no doubt whatever.

Private dispatches from the Hague report that the general idea there is that King William is dying. The utmost anxiety is felt about the Luxemburg succession, which will naturally devolve upon Adolph, Duke of Nassau, but which it is suspected the King of Prussia may appropriate on the ground of ancient claims to the Orange heirship, which the Kings of Prussia asserted up to the time of the pragmatic sanction.

Accidentally Killed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—Emile Martinoni, a member of the firm of Buneman & Martinoni, wholesale liquor dealers, was accidentally shot and fatally wounded this morning by police officer, Harry Hook. Hook was running down Front street after an escaping thief and fired three shots from his revolver into the ground to frighten fugitive. Martinoni, who was in his office at Front and Clay streets, heard the first shot and stepped to the door just in time to be struck near the eye by a piece of a flying bullet which had evidently first hit the car-track and broken.

NEW YORK, Jan 15.—A cigar-box factory on East Fifth street is burning. Three girls are known to have been burned to death. A man was arrested on suspicion of having set the fire.

German Politics.

BERLIN, Jan. 15. — Bismarck was present at the meeting of the Reichstag to-day, and made a speech in which he disparaged the reports published concerning the British Niger Company. Herbert Bismarck said the matter is being arranged between the English and German Governments.

Richter criticized the investigations by the Government for the suppression of the slave trade in Africa. Bismarck replied, denouncing the lack of patriotism of the Liberal press, which is seeking to embarrass the policy of the Fatherland for the benefit of foreigners.

During a debate on the expenses of the German Consulate at Zanzibar, Bismarck said he would now refer to the Government's Colonial policy, but would speak on the subject during the debate on the East Africa bill, which will be submitted to the Bundesrath forthwith.

Higgins, 9; Massey, 6, At 10:45 the House balloted for United States Senator. The fourteen Republican members voted for Anthony Higgins, five Democrats for Alfred V. Robinson, and the remaining two for James L. Wolcott. The division in the Democratic vote was in consequence of the inability of their caucus to agree upon a candidate. The Senate balloted at 11:15, and the seven Democratic members voted for Walcott and the two Republicans for Higgins. This makes the vote of both Houses stand, Higgins, 16; Walcott, 9; Robinson, 5.

Took the Chances.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. Jan. 15.—A negro, George Meadows, was hung at the Pratt mines this morning by a mob of quiet determined men who had him in charge all day yesterday and all last night. While Mrs. Kelly, his victim, was almost positive in her identification this morning, just as she was yesterday, she still asked the mob not to hang him, as she might possibly be mistaken. There are little doubt, this was because she shrank from the responsibility of saying what she knew would cause his certain death. The mob so regarded it. He protested his innocence to the last.

Think They Have the Whitechapel Fiend.

TUNIS, Jan. 15.—The Police captured a gang of robbers and assassins, and among the members is a man who is believed to be the Whitechapel butcher of London. The British Consul has forwarded all the details connected with the arrests. The supposed Whitechapel murderer is charged with having committed in Tunis, a murder similar to those committed in Whitechapel. The man has confessed that he recently lived in Whitechapel.

Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, croup and all throat and lung diseases quickly cured. You can test it before buying by getting a trial bottle free; large size, $1. Every bottle warranted.

Soothes and Heals.

Santa Abie soothes and heals the membranes of the throat and lungs, when poisoned and inflamed by disease. It prevents night sweats and tightness across the chest, cures coughs, croup, asthma, colds, bronchitis, pneumonia, whooping-cough and all other throat and lung troubles. No other medicine is so successful in curing nasal catarrh as California Cat-R-Cure. The enormous and increasing demand for these standard California remedies confirms their merits. Sold and absolutely guaranteed by Osburn & Shoemaker, at $1 a package. Three for $2.50.

If you are nervous or irritable, feel languid, dispirited, or if you have sick headache, sallow complexion, or offensive breath, then your liver is out of order and needs rousing. Dr. Henley's Dandelion Tonic restores the liver to healthy action and tones up the entire system. Sold by William Pinniger.

A PORTENTIOUS QUESTION.

Let us Show the World Our Resources and Catch Some of the Immigration.

EDITOR GAZETTE:—What's the matter with Nevada? Why don't our people wake up from their Rip Van Winkle sleep and advertise her advantages? Thousands of people are daily passing through our State who are seeking new homes and know nothing of this country's riches, in lands, through which they pass. California is showing and telling these people what they have by sending out millions of descriptive pamphlets, maps and circulars broad cast over the world. She has no richer soil than Nevada, no more beautiful valleys which are richer in agricultural and mineral products, no finer climate can be found than Nevada possess. We have more bright sunny days, more beautiful moonlight nights, and as much delightful scenery as any country. Why our life giving pure mountain air extends on a perpendicular for 32 miles, and nobody but ourselves know what we have. Our light is hidden under a bushel. Is there no way to wake our people up to what they are daily losing? We have a live energetic class of population who will put their shoulder to anything. Their purse is open to any and all good enterprises, but they lack organization and systematic concert of action to let these people know what they are running by. The taxable property of our State can easily be increased millions. Our bankers, merchants, mechanics, laborers, and all classes of people can be immensely benefitted by letting these people, who are daily passing our doors, know what they can find in Nevada. There is hardly a town in California but has a Board of Trade which shows up to the world their respective resources and advantages. Nevada's whole State has not a single Board of Trade. Can't Reno organize one? It don't take many days to get returns from printer's ink cast upon white paper. Yours,

MOSS BACK.

Local and General Intelligence.

For dry goods lost read 50-cent column.

Pneumonia is said to be prevalent in Storey county.

John C. Dorsey, an old resident of Carson, was buried day before yesterday.

Yesterday D. C. Wheeler shipped five cars of mutton sheep to San Francisco.

Dana Perkins of Rocklin, Cal., is said to be a candidate for the position of State Librarian of that State.

Seven carloads of corrugated iron, consigned to the California Bridge Company, passed west yesterday.

A special passenger train from the East will pass here this evening about the time of the regular 6:15 overland.

Chief Naches of Winnemucca and George Qaeep, Piute interpreter at the Pyramid reservation, are in Reno.

Last evening Deputy Sheriff Nofsinger arrived from Winnemucca with Matt Connors, who was committed to the Insane Asylum.

Robert Doran, a Carson man, was found dead in his room at the Carson Exchange Sunday morning. Heart disease is said to be the cause.

Louis Siebert was fatally injured last Sunday by being thrown from his wagon, near Lake City, about twelve miles from Nevada City, California.

John Condon, who returned yesterday from Boca, informed a GAZETTE reporter that there are 100 men in that camp waiting for the ice-harvest to commence.

Six deaths have occurred in Carson within one week. The first time in the history of the town that such a thing has occurred, unless an epidemic was raging.

The two passenger trains which have recently been abandoned on the C. P. are the east-bound train which arrived here at 11:30 P. M. and the west-bound which got here at 10:20 P. M.

Hugh McNamara, who came in from Long Valley last evening, informs the GAZETTE that cattle in his locality are looking better than a month ago; that Chat Roberts is killing good beef right off the range.

Attention is called to the ad. of the Nevada Tea store in to-day's GAZETTE. Messrs. Rother & Cushing have come here to stay and they are going to sell tea, coffee and spices at prices that defy competition.

A. E. Lothrop, father of the infant whose death is noticed in to-day's GAZETTE, accompanied by his brother-in-law, A. L. Linn, and sister-in-law, Miss Kittie Linn, will leave for Winnemucca to-morrow morning with the remains of the little one. Mrs. Lothrop is unable to go.

A Brief Life.

In another column will be seen the death notice of the infant son of A. E. and Mabel Lothrop, whose brief life of twenty-one days was ended last night at 10:30 o'clock. No one who has never experienced the joys of parentage can appreciate how in so brief a time a little one can weave itself around the hearts of those to whom it owes its existence. God help the grief-stricken father and mother, for this writer knows from better experience how desolate the world seems to them.

No Fault of the Company.

It was no fault of the Water Company that the water gave out at the Fulton fire yesterday morning. The difficulty can be easily explained, namely: A three-inch plug supplies the cistern in front of the Fulton place. The fire company coupled on this plug and stopped the flow of water into the cistern—as a result the cistern was pumped dry, the cistern having of a capacity of only about 2000.

Epoch.

The transition from long, lingering and painful sickness to robust health marks an epoch in the life of the individual. Such a remarkable event is treasured in the memory and the agency whereby the good health has been attained is gratefully blessed. Hence it is that so much is heard in praise of Electric Bitters. So many feel they owe their restoration to health to the use of the Great Alterative and Tonic. If you are troubled with any form of the Kidneys or Liver or Stomach, of long or short standing you will surely find relief by the use of Electric Bitters. Sold at 50c and $1 per bottle at Hodgkinson's drug store.

Valuable Information.

Section 1. Article 1—C. W. Booton, of the Opera House Dry Goods Store, begs leave to call the attention of the public to bear in mind that he has put in a fine and well selected stock of boots and shoes made by the famous Nolan Brothers, of San Francisco. The quality of this firms make is too well known to need any comment, also my stock of ready made clothing is second to none now in this city for quality and reasonable prices; good suits for men from $6 50 per suit up; boys suits from $2 50 per suit up.

Section 2. Article1—Any intelligent community, especially such as resides in Reno, were tired and disgusted long ago of reading advertisements quoting prices reduced from so and so to so and so,; for instance, you see advertised to-day in the papers a corset reduced from $1 to 55cts,; now there must be something wrong, to charge ladies $1 for a corset for some time, then reduce it to 55cts. I sell the same corset for 50cts, in all sizes and never asked any more, as it is my regular price. Article 2—In this mornings paper may also be seen a description of ladies cloth 36 inches wide selling for 25cts per yard, all ladies who are at all posted, know there is no such thing as a ladies cloth 36 inches wide, if perchance there may be such a thing in the catagory dry goods, out of respect to the ladies, I would not advertise it for sale for I know it would not give satisfaction; see my all wool fine quality of TRECOT dress goods all shades, for 40cts sold everywhere for 75cts per yard.

Section 3. Article 1—I sell white merino vests for 35cts each, all sizes, which is my regular price. I sell hemstitched, colored bordered, handkerchiefs for 4cts each and make no blow about it like our cotemporary who sells them for 5cts each. I sell a nice black jersey for 50cts which is the regular price, it is not reduced from $1 as some would have you to believe. I sell a pure linen damask towel with fancy designs on center and fancy border. This towel is 40 inches long, and I positively say that wherever it is kept in stock on this coast it is retailed for 50cts. I sell it for 25cts, if this towel is not as I advertise it, I will charge nothing for it. Call and see it.

Section 4. Article 1—Please note again, you see advertised frequently RHADAMES reduced from $2 to $1 25, this is a repetition of section 2, article 1, you will see there is a profit of 75cts per yard taken off which is an enormous profit and as no one sells goods for cost, even then, at $1 25 per yard, there must be still a profit. Now I sell good rhadames for $1 yer yard, which I suppose other merchants sell for $2 per yard.

Section 4. Article 1—I sell an excellent quality of black silk for $1 per yard. The ladies frequently tell me they paid $2 per yard for the same article down street, I don't doubt it in the least; but the time has arrived when high prices will reign no longer in Reno on dry goods, boots and shoes and clothing, and the amount of goods I turn out daily is a sufficient guarantee that the people of Reno appreciate a one price cash store, all goods marked in plain figures. Respectfully,

C. W. BOOTON.

A Dig in the ribs.

If on the right side and lower part of the diaphragm, though playfully meant and delivered, is calculated to evoke profanity from a chappy whose liver is out of order. When that reigon is sore and congested, pokes seem fiendish. Look at a man's countenance ere you prod him under the ribs. If his skin and eyeballs have a sallow tinge, you may infer also that his tongue is furred, his breath apt to be sour, that he has pains not only beneath his ribs, but also under the right shoulder-blade, also that his bowels are irregular and his digestion impaired. Instead of making a jocose demonstration on his ribs, recommend him to take, and steadily persist in taking, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the finest anti-bilious and alterative medicine extant. Incomparable is it, also, for dispepsia, rheumatism, nervousness, kidney trouble, and fever and ague.

George Bancroft, the historian, is 88.

A gentleman who had suffered great annoyance and pain from Barber's Itch, and who had been treated by the best physicians without relief, says that two bottles of Dr. Tard's Specific cured him and left his face perfectly smooth, without a scar. It never fails in skin diseases. Sold by Wm. Pinniger.

Sir G. B. Airy, the astronomer, is 87.

PORTLAND, Oregon, JANUARY 12.

Having a severe backache last summer, I tried the Oregon Kidney Tea. I used one can which effected a radical cure. I would recommend it to all who are afflicted as an unfailing remedy. JULIUS ACH.

THE MARCH OF PROGRESS!

OUR LATEST IMPROVEMENTS!

"Competition is the Life of Trade," and if you have not seen our latest improved goods you cannot imagine how lively trade is, or how hard our competitors have to work to keep within sight of us. Ask your retailer for the JAMES MEANS' $3 SHOE, or the JAMES MEANS' $4 SHOE according to your needs.

Positively none genuine unless having our name and price stamped plainly on the soles. Your retailer will supply you with shoes so stamped if you insist upon his doing so; if you do not insist, some retailers will coax you into buying inferior shoes upon which they make a larger profit.

Such has been the recent progress in our branch of industry that we are now able to affirm that the James Means' $4 Shoe is in every respect equal to the shoes which only a few years ago were retailed at eight or ten dollars. If you will try on a pair you will be convinced that we do not exaggerate. Ours are the original $3 and $4 Shoes, and those who imitate our system of business are unable to compete with us in quality of factory products. In our lines we are the largest manufacturers in the United States.

One of our traveling salesmen who is now visiting the shoe retailers of the Pacific Coast and Rocky Mountain Region writes from there as follows:

"I am more than satisfied with the results of my trip. I have thus far succeeded in placing our full line in the hands of 'A No. 1' dealers in every point I have visited." He goes on to say, "This is a splendid region for us to sell shoes in, because most of the retailers are charging their customers at retail about double the prices which the shoes have cost at wholesale. The consequence is that the people who wear those shoes pay seven or seven dollars a pair for shoes which are not worth as much as our JAMES MEANS' $3 and $4 SHOES. Our shoes with their very low retail prices stamped on the soles of every pair are breaking down the high prices which have hitherto ruled in the retail markets here, and when a retailer puts a full line of goods in his stock they at once begin to go off like hot cakes, so great is the demand for them."

Now, kind reader, just stop and consider what the above signifies so far as you are concerned. It assures you that if you keep on buying shoes bearing no manufacturers' name or fixed retail price stamped on the soles, you cannot tell what you are getting and your retailer is probably making you pay double what your shoes have cost him. Now, can you afford to do this while we are protecting you by stamping our name and the fixed retail price upon the soles of our shoes before they leave our factory so that you cannot be made to pay more for your shoes than they are worth?

Shoes from our celebrated factory are sold by wide-awake retailers in all parts of the country. We will place them easily within your reach in any State or Territory if you will favor one first in a postal card and write to us.

JAMES MEANS & CO., 41 Lincoln St., Boston, Mass.

Constipation

Causes, directly or indirectly, fully one-half the sufferings which afflict mankind. It is usually induced by inactivity of the liver, and may be cured by the use of Ayer's Pills. C. A. Schomerus, Great Bend, Kansas, writes: "I have used Ayer's Pills for Costiveness, with the most beneficial results." J. Windholm, Newark, N. THE PLUMBERS.

The light of day was waning fast,
As up the cellar steps there passed
A man and boy with pot and kit,
And through the hall made their exit—
The Plumbers.

Their hands were black, their faces, too,
Got dirt begrimed where fingers grew;
For they had toiled with might and main
All day to clear the choked-up drain—
The Plumbers.

Down through the grating poured the light
Of outside sunshine warm and bright;
Above their heads the cobwebs hung,
While leaky drains they dug among—
The Plumbers.

"Be not too quick," their master said,
As to the job that morn they sped,
"The landlord's purse is deep and wide;
We'll drain it well," they both replied—
The Plumbers.

"Oh, stay!" the housemaid said, "I think
The pipes are breaking at our sink;"
A smile lit up their faces black,
"We'll come again," they answered back—
The Plumbers.

"Beware, good maid, and do not speak
Of every petty, trifling leak!"
This was the landlord's last request,
As man and boy went off to rest—
The Plumbers.

Next morning prompt at the hour of eight,
They both appeared at the basement gate,
And still the heartless public say:
"They work an hour and charge a day"—
The Plumbers.

Who is it then who promptly sends
A burly bill of odds and ends;
Of leaden pipes with hooks and screws,
And other stuff they never use?
The Plumbers.

There in the cash-drawer, flat and thin,
The landlord's purse is lying in;
"Who was it drained this man so dry?"
The landlord answers with a sigh:
The Plumbers.

DEATH BY HANGING.

References to Executions in England, France and America.

Killing criminals by hanging will perhaps soon be out of date—none too soon. For, writes Thomas J. Bowditch in the Troy (N. Y.) Times, we apprehend that hanging when skilfully performed is but a barbarous mode of putting an end to life, and unskilfully performed there is reason to believe that it becomes a positive torture; and, moreover, the mere difference in the weight of the culprits renders it at all times an unequal punishment. Heavy murderers escape much of the pain we inflict on lighter ones.

The modern gallows is not like the ancient gibbet. Down to the French revolution gibbets used to stand in every French town and village. They were generally composed of pillars of stone, joined at the summit by wooden traverses, to which the bodies of malefactors hung until they had crumbled to dust. That of Montfaucon, which is so famous in history, stood on an eminence by the high road leading to Germany. It consisted of a mass of masonry composed of ten or twelve layers of rough stones, and formed an inclosure of forty by thirty feet. At the upper part was a platform, reached by a stone staircase. In the center of the inclosure was a deep pit, where pell-mell the skeletons were thrown. Crows and buzzards flew about and fed upon the corpses, and the stench was horrible. As many as fifty-two were sometimes hanging at once. Sometimes the remains hung in wicker baskets or iron caskets. Those of Pierre des Essarts hung three years before they were delivered to his family for burial.

The victim rode in a cart to the gibbet, and, when the cart arrived at the foot, the executioner ascended the ladder backward, drawing the culprit after him by means of ropes, and on arriving at the top he quickly fastened two ropes of the size of the little finger, each having a slip-knot, around his neck, to the arm of the gibbet, and by a jerk of the knee he turned the culprit off the ladder. He still held in his hand a small rope called a gat, used to pull the victim off the ladder. He then placed his feet on the hands of the condemned, and, suspending himself by his hands to the gibbet, he finished his victim by repeated jerks, which completed strangulation.

In England, from 1191, when Fityasborn was hanged there, to 1783, when John Austin was hung at Tyburn—a place notorious in the criminal annals of England—many eminent people were executed. Among these were the pretty and wicked Lady Agnes Hungerford, for poisoning her husband; the poet Southwell; Sir Thomas Armstrong, a victim of the Rye House plot affair; Lord Ferrers, who would be hanged in his wedding clothes, and Rev. Dr. Dodd, that once fashionable preacher, for whom one can not help feeling a little sympathy. People went to the Tyburn hangings as to a festival. The vulgar drank and swore, while the "quality" made a pic-nic of it.

In Massachusetts in the seventeenth century several women were among the victims of the witchcraft delusion, among them being Mrs. Hibbins, who was a sister of Governor Bellingham and widow of a man of good position in the colony. Some of those persons who were hanged at the time of the "Salem Witchcraft" were women of good repute One was hanged in New York, charged with having been concerned in the "Negro Plot" of 1741, one of the strangest events of colonial history. Mrs. Bathshuba Spooner was hanged in Worcester, Mass., on July 3, 1778, she having taken part in the murder of her husband. Mrs. Spooner was a daughter of General Ruggles, a public man of great note one hundred years ago, but who took the Tory side of the revolution, and was ruined; and Mrs. Spooner was a superior woman who was unhappily married. She seduced a young American soldier, Ezra Ross, and Ross and two British soldiers of Burgoyne's army, James Buchanan and William Brooks, killed Mr. Spooner. All four were executed at the same time and place, and a most terrific thunder-storm broke out before they reached the gallows. While under sentence Mrs. Spooner asked a respite, which was refused. Some years later a woman named Wall was hanged in Boston for theft. There are quite a number of other cases of the hanging of women in this country.

No other instance has been so much discussed and written about as that of Annie Green, which took place in England during the time of the Commonwealth. Judges and physicians alike referred to it as affording illustrations for or against legal and medical testimony. This poor girl was executed at Marston, in Oxfordshire, on December 14, 1650, for infanticide, a charge which could only be proved against her by much straining of the law. This severity and a knowledge of the wrong which she had suffered in other ways made her an object of much public sympathy. The hanging was accompanied by certain coarse and shocking pullings and strikings of the body and limbs, which in those days were supposed to insure more effectually the death of the victim and to lessen the period of suffering. After hanging the usual time she was cut down, actually trampled on while prostrate, and left with the rope unslackened round her neck. She was put into a coffin and consigned to the doctors for dissection. To the surprise of all, when the coffin was opened the bosom was seen gently to heave.

The incident was too remarkable, however, to remain concealed, and men of superior position took up the matter. Sir William Petty, Dr. Wallis and Dr. Clark, who at that time filled the three offices of professors of anatomy, President of Magdalen College and Vice Chancellor of Oxford University, being present at the intended dissection, perceived that the heaving of the bosom was followed by a slight rattling in her throat. Dr. Plat writes of this case as follows. "Hereupon, desisting from their former purpose, they presently used means for her recovery by opening a vein, laying her in a warm bed, and using divers remedies respecting her senselessness, head, throat and chest, insomuch that within fourteen hours she began to speak, and the next day talked and prayed heartily." During the time of her recovering the officers concerned in her execution would have had her away again to have the execution completed, but by the mediation of the worthy doctors and some other friends with the then Governor of the city, Colonel Kelsey, there was a guard set upon her to hinder all further disturbance till he had sued out her pardon from the powers then in being, thousands of people in the meantime coming to see her, and magnifying the just providence of heaven in thus asserting her innocence of murder.

In 1383 Walter Wynkeburn was hanged at Leicester. When cut down he was carried in a cart to the cemetery of the Holy Sepulcher in that city. He gradually regained sensibility while the cart was rumbling along and escaped with life. Similarly in the fifteenth century Dr Platt mentions the strange case of a Swiss, on the authority of Dr. Walker, master of University College. This man is said to have been hung no less than thirteen times without losing his life, his windpipe having been converted by disease into a substance almost as hard as bone.

Hanging in chains has been for so many years discontinued that the manner of it is no longer generally known, and many might imagine that a chain was really used for the execution of the criminal instead of a rope. But this was not so; he was in the first instance hanged in the ordinary way with a hempen cord, and after he was dead and cut down from the gibbet a stout canvas dress was put on the body, well saturated with tar; the face, hands and feet were likewise daubed with it, and then a light frame of hoop-iron was fitted round the legs, body and arms with the object of causing the ghastly remains to hang together as long as possible. At the top of this framework was an iron hoop, which went over the head, and to this was secured the chain by which the corpse was finally suspended to a lofty gibbet made of oak, and studded with tenter-hooks to prevent any one from climbing up to remove the body. The last of these hideous spectacles might have been seen in England as recently as the year 1816 on the point formed by the curve of the River Thames, a mile below Greenwich, where the wasted corpses of four Lascars, hanged for mutiny and the murder of the captain and most of the crew of an Indiaman, were still hanging in chains from a lofty gibbet.

Assumed that it is necessary to put an end to the earthly career of a certain class of criminals, that object is fully gained by the quickest and most merciful means. Life should be extinguished without torture. In the future it will seem odd to hear a judge when giving an order for the execution of a criminal to say: "Your sentence is death by an electric shock."

Man makes a death which nature never made.

MENTAL ABERRATION.

How One Can Contradict Himself and Yet Be Truthful.

"I can understand perfectly how a witness can contradict himself point blank and yet be truthful to the best of his knowledge and ability," said a very intelligent lady to a Chicago Journal reporter. "Now, I myself should do that very thing in court. I will tell you why. I have a very accurate and vivid memory. The only trouble with it is that, like an otherwise perfect firearm, it 'hangs fire.' It always seems to act a moment or so too late, and as I am of an impulsive temperament, I have often asserted or denied before my memory has had time to shove into view the right mental photograph. The mnemonical peculiarity by which a name, unrecallable when wanted, will flash with lightning-like suddenness and vividness into the mind a few moments later, is a well-known and illustrative trait. I have often emphatically denied that I have been apprised of some domestic happening, and a little while after, when the verbal controversy had passed from my immediate notice, the remembrance of the time, place, speaker, and all the details of the imparting of that disputed information rose before me with appalling distinctness. I use the word appalling because it seems to me that in some future existence that will be the way our memory will present mental reproductions to our consciences. One morning when I was dressing in the room with my little three-year-old girl I took up a bureau ornament, a bisque dog, and found it broken cleanly in two. I leaped to the conclusion that the damage was the work of the child's meddlesome fingers, and reprovingly asked: 'Oh, how could you break this after all I have said about letting it alone! Now, when did you do it!' Thereupon the little one made a plausible confession. (And, by the way, the subject of false confessions made by weak minds is in itself a study.) A few hours later, standing again in front of the bureau, it was as if a voice said within me: 'Don't you remember! You were hurrying to find your gloves. Your husband called you. Your sleeve hit the jewel-box cover and knocked it off. You found the gloves, picked up the box-cover—the plush held the broken pieces together—and you saw they fitted perfectly, and thought you could mend them so the break would not show. Then you put it on the bureau and ran down stairs, because your husband again called to you to hurry.'"
